Two-thirds of the voting members present shall be required to secure the adoption of such project, making it the new Constitution of the Club. Any Committee on Constitution having been out for more than the time covered by three regular meetings shall be declared discharged from its duties by the President, at the request of any voting member at any regular meeting of the Club.

Section 2. The Recording Secretary shall not Notice fail, in sending notices of regular meetings, to give

(b) The said Press Club may empower a trust company of first-class standing to act as its agent under a mutually revocable covenant, and for a compensation, the agent performing such duties as may be agreed upon under written covenant.

(c) The said Press Club may appoint one or more of its voting members to perform the same duties as in paragraph (b), and for a compensation.

(d) The Board of Directors of the said Press Club may manage and administer the property of the said Press Club, but without compensation to any elected officer of the said Press Club.

Section 2. No covenant made by the said Press

Club shall traverse or nullify the spirit and principle of this organic instrument—namely, that the said Press Club itself shall enjoy regular monthly meetings of all its voting members, general supervision of all its fraternal affairs, and annual, free, and open elections, in which all voting members shall have equal rights; and no officer of the said Press Club shall hold office for a term longer than one year, except as provided in Art. IV, Sec. 3; but all officers of the said Press Club shall be eligible for re-election.

Section 3. The said Press Club binds itself hereby to faithfully perform its part of any covenant made in conformity with this Art. XIII, and will, in its action, be thus and that far guided by the details of said covenant, the same as if those conformable details were entered into this organic instrument—(it again being reserved and understood that the said Press Club, within its own proper government, shall continue to enjoy the rights of regular monthly meetings, supervision of all its own affairs, and annual free, and open elections, as stated in Section 2).
